COLORADO.

Talmage Will Lecture in this State.

DENVER, July 3. Rev. T. Dewitt Talmage has just accepted an offer made him to deliver a series of lectures in California this summer and will stop over in Denver and Leadville to deliver his lecture entitled "Big Blunders."

Supposed Suicide.

PUEBLO, July 3. The body of John Maxwell was found in the Arkansas river three miles below this city last night. The deceased is from Chetpota, Kansas, and laid in the water three weeks. It is a case of supposed suicide.

Fatal Fall.

DENVER, July 3. A carpenter named A. C. Conells, at work on Alderman Davis' residence on Curtis street, fell from the scaffold to the ground, a distance of thirty feet, yesterday, fracturing his skull and receiving injuries from which he died during the forenoon.

Pardoned.

DENVER, July 3. The old man who was sentenced to the penitentiary two years ago for killing Jack Martin, was yesterday pardoned by Governor Pitkin.

GENERAL NEWS.

Condition of Crops.

WASHINGTON, July 3. The June report of the department of agriculture shows the following condition of crops:

Oats. Acreage in oats shows an increase over 1879 of 2 per cent. in condition &c. The crop is much better than last year and 93 against 81 in June '79.

Rye—For several years there has been a general reduction of area devoted to the crop. Its condition June 1st, averaged 95 against 91 last year. The present promise of crop is about equal in aggregate of production to that of last year, notwithstanding reduced acreage.

Barley. The area in barley decreased about 10 per cent. compared with last year.—Average condition June 1st, was 99 per cent. against 91 in 1879 and 102 in 1878.

Clover—Average of clover shows no very material change from that year. The only change is noticeable in increase in cotton growing states and the Pacific slope. The condition is low for all countries except New England, the gulf states and the Pacific coast.

The prospect for a good fruit season is very favorable.

Appeals for A Brave Woman.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Mrs. Dubois, niece of Capt. Worrell, who commanded the California clipper, "Gray Friar," and who once navigated her uncle's ship in the Pacific, bringing it safely to port during her uncle's illness, is now here sick and destitute, all her relatives being dead. The Herald makes an appeal for her.

Poor Market for Mining Stocks.

NEW YORK, July 3.—The Evening Post's financial article says if the new American Mining Exchange has not met the expectation of its members, and there is much complaint in consequence, no doubt this is owing to the depression brought about by the part or entire collapse of worthless schemes, fostered by California adventurers, who are charged generally with ruining the eastern market.

The Sun Dance.

CHICAGO, July 3. The inhuman sun dance of the Red Cloud Indians at the Pine Ridge agency has just taken place. A representative of the press witnessed the barbarous ceremony.

Birth-Day Congratulations.

CHICAGO, July 3.—The London Times, in an editorial on the American national anniversary, congratulates the United States on their happy situation and prospect commercially and politically, and declares that all mankind gain by the prosperity which the American people have succeeded in extracting from the noble land it tenants.

Not to Pay Interest.

PITTSBURG, PA., July 3. A test case involving the question whether Alleghany county should be compelled to pay interest on the claims for losses incurred by the great riots of 1877, was decided in the common pleas court in the negative.

Buying Fast Horses.

CHICAGO, July 3.—A dispatch from New York says Leonard W. Jerome, purchased One Dime, Blue Lodge, Irish King and Bashi Bazouk, famous running horses.

Total Loss East River Disaster.

NEW YORK, July 3.—The bodies of two more victims of the Seawanahaka disaster were picked up to-day in the river, making a total of forty bodies recovered. Twelve persons are missing.

President Hayes' Return.

NEW YORK, July 3.—President Hayes and Mrs. Hayes visited Coney Island to day, accompanied by Postmaster James and Mrs. James. In the evening the president and party started for Washington.

FOREIGN.

Last of the Shooting.

DUBLIN, July 3. The following American riflemen have agreed to act with Frank Hyde in the match at Wimbledon: Brown, Clark, Ludley, Fallow, Gerst, Jackson, Laird, Rockwell and Scott; also Burnside if he arrives in time. In the competition for "All Around Challenge," to-day at 1:45, the American team consists of Brown, Jackson, Scott and Laird. Of the two Irish teams, one consists of Fenton, Rigby, Warren and Milner, the other of Joynt, Coghlan, Johnson and Murphy. The weather is stormy with rain.

At three p. m. the shooting at the 1000 yards range was finished. The firing was done in a rain storm. The score is as follows:

AMERICANS.

Jackson	43
Scott	42
Brown	45
Laird	37
Total	167

IRISH NO. 1.

Fenton	37
Rigby	42
Warren	36
Milner	44
Total	159

IRISH NO. 2.

Joynt	45
Coghlan	33
Johnson	38
Murphy	46
Total	162

Col. Bodine says his team will be disbanded after to-day, and he will leave Liverpool for New York on the 20th inst., with the members of the team ready to go. Rathbone, Clark, Fisher and Rockwell will probably accompany Col. Bodine back. He is uncertain about others but hopes they will not remain contrary to the orders of the National Rifle Association. Brown will go to the continent and Bodine thinks he will not shoot with Frank Hyde. The thirty-fourth total scores at 1,000 yard range for twenty shots, were 342; Irish, No. 1, 329; No. 2, 331.

The first ten rounds at 1,100 yards range were fired off at 5:52, and the score stood, Americans Jackson 36, Scott 41, Brown 35, Laird 35; aggregate of American team 487.

Irish team No. 1—Fenton 41, John Rigby 36, Warren 38, Milner 34; aggregate 490.

No. 2—Joynt 39, Coghlan 35, Johnson 32, Murphy 34; aggregate 470. The weather was now brightening up, after heavy showers.

The Americans missed three times on the fourteenth round. The aggregate scores stood: Americans, 535; Irish No. 1, 550; No. 2, 522. Five misses were made by the Americans in the last four rounds. On the 17th round the score stood, Americans 593, Irish No. 1 595, No. 2, 581. The twenty rounds were fired at 7.05, and the shooting for the day was brought to a close. The total score was Irish No. 1 636, No. 2 626, Americans 635.

Taxes in England.

LONDON, July 3. The Economist says, Gladstone has intimated he intends to drop from his budget bill the clause relating to wine duties. This means that the proposed reduction will not take place at present and no fresh proposals on the subject can be brought forward before February. Assured of this delay the wine trade will settle down somewhat, but the knowledge that negotiations are still in progress and that the reduction of duties is probable, will inevitably restrict business. Only hand to mouth trade will be done, and we now see clearly it would have been better if the government had refrained from proposing a reduction until they had some reasonable prospect of negotiations with France coming to a speedy issue.

The disposition is showing itself in Hamburg to negotiate with the imperial government for an abandonment of its free port privilege.

Peace in Buenos Ayres.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 3. The latest intelligence to day from Buenos Ayres is that peace has been concluded, Buenos Ayres having submitted to the national authorities.

Gladstone's Victory.

LONDON, July 3. The action of the House of Commons on Premier Gladstone's resolution permitting Bradlaugh to affirm, has given great satisfaction to a [illegible] of the [illegible].

Bradlaugh's Trials.

LONDON, July 3. With a view to bring the conduct of Bradlaugh in parliament before the court Queen's Bench, witnesses were in the house of commons yesterday. Bradlaugh was sitting and voting. His prosecution will be commenced forthwith. It is understood that Bradlaugh intends to fight the action if necessary in the house of lords.

Honoring the Memory of Robert Raikes.

LONDON, July 3. Lord Shaftesbury to day unveiled the statute on the Thames embankment to Robert Raikes, the originator of Sunday schools in England 100 years ago. Dr. Vincent was present in behalf of the Sunday schools of the United States. Dr. Murphy, an American, read a portion of the scripture, and Dr. Todd, an American, offered prayer.

Catholics in Belgium.

ROME, July 3. The Aurora, organ of the vatican, states the consequence of the departure of the papal nuncio from Brussels, and the suppression of the Belgian legation at the vatican, will not be of slight moment, but it observes the relations between the holy see, and the Catholics of Belgium will never be broken or less solid and cardinal. Bishops will be papal nuncios henceforth.

The Anti-Jesuit Movement.

PARIS, July 3. The Prefect of the Department of Nord, having taken further steps in the case of the suit instigated by the expelled Jesuits at Lille tribunal, has declined to proceed with a hearing.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

The headquarters of the republican national committee have been located at 241 Fifth avenue.

General Singleton has been nominated for congress in the 11th congressional district of Illinois.

The chamber of deputies in France have reduced the duty on sugar.

Mrs. Hancock.

Mrs. Hancock, the wife of the General, is a few years his junior in age, and as a woman is as imposing in appearance as he is as a man. Tall and well proportioned, with almost winsome smile, a manner that puts you at your ease at once and a pair of eyes that animate every line of a handsome face, she is still a beauty, although her hair is becoming streaked with gray. She was married when the General was but a young lieutenant doing duty in the far west. It was entirely a love match, and neither of them have since regretted it, in fact, their home is one of the happiest imaginable. Mrs. Hancock has always been opposed to her husband's becoming a candidate for the presidency, and she is even above the weakness of wishing to be the mistress of the White House. She dreads the worry of the canvass, and if her husband is elected she thinks that the honor which the position brings will be dearly purchased by the renunciation of all domestic life for four years to come, and of his position as senior major general, and his chances of soon becoming chief of the army. While she prefers her own home existence, however, there is no one better qualified to play the hostess on a grand scale than she. A society belle, even after her marriage, she has all the self-confidence and resources needed to entertain the most varied company. There is nothing in the range of conversation about which she does not know something. Her greatest charm, however, is and it is the General's also the art of making every individual atom feel as if he were the one and sole object of her attentions. [N. Y. Graphic.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,
JAMES A. GARFIELD.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

The independent republican papers of 1872 are all advocating Garfield

If Blaine goes to the Pacific coast, it will make the success of the republican ticket doubly certain.

The notion that this is the nation's birthday would clear away the false ideas about state sovereignty.

One hundred and four years ago to day our nation was born. The so-called sovereign thirteen states were unthought of then. It was an after fiction

The French are showing great liberality in the Amnesty Bill They should show the same liberality toward religious orders that they do to political societies

The weaknesses of the democratic ticket are now beginning to be appreciated Hancock has no record as a civil officer, and English's dates back to ante bellum times

General Hancock's personal character has not yet been attacked by a single republican journal. This is promising. We are setting the democrats a good example.

Hancock personally does not represent a single issue in the present campaign, except the national government is above the state government, and he leads a party that believes the opposite.

The persecution of the Jesuits in France is having an opposite effect from the one desired. It is making active friends of the order, those who a week ago were indifferent. The only way to kill the order is to let it alone.

One thing is noticeable about the campaign to date. The democrats have not spoken of a single scandal during the present administration It has been able, pure and intelligent and offers the best reason for continuing the republican party in power.

John W. Forney is another member of the "old guard" who has deserted his standard just before the battle and gone over to the enemy. All republican defections to Hancock thus far, have come from the "old guard" The reason of it is this: these fellows were for Grant because they expected office under him. They know they have no show with Garfield and hence they desert to Hancock. The defection of such men greatly strengthens the party.

Secretary Sherman can now get the credit of working his department in the interest of the government, since he is no longer a presidential candidate. Last year he saved a million dollars in collecting the revenue, and has turned the balance into the treasury. This is remarkable, as the democratic congress appropriated as little as possible, and the amount of revenue collected is greater than estimated. He has also spent much less than allowed in refunding and has turned the balance into the treasury. He is, in this way, doing the most effective kind of campaign work for the republican party. Civil service may be a humbug, but when it saves $1,000,000 in a single department it will generally be considered a good thing.

As we have frequently said the present campaign will be waged rather on party principles than personalities It is of the greatest importance therefore to know the opinions of the different candidates In 1858 Mr. English,—the candidate for the vice presidency, said regarding his democracy "Sir, I claim to be one of the old democratic guard one of those who never gave an opposition vote, never varied a shadow of a shade from democratic, or pandered in the slightest to Free Soil principles Sir, those who are familiar with my political history, know there is no stain of Free Soilism in my record General Hancock has no record on any political question, but Mr English has His boast was that there was "no stain as he is pleased to call it, of "Free Soilism in my record is there any American who loves liberty and sympathized with the union during the war that can vote for a man who boasts the absence of such a "stain?"

The Cleveland Leader finally satirizes Hancock's lack of a record as follows

On the subject of the currency, he is a magnificent looking fellow

On the subject of the tariff, he is a splendid soldier

On the subject of free trade, he wears a brilliant uniform.

On the subject of river and harbor improvements, he makes a grand appearance on horseback

On state rights, he appears well in his epaulets and brass buttons

On civil service reform he has a fine military bearing.

On the so-called reform in the administration of the government, he is a modern Murat

On the subject of our foreign relations, he wears a splendid mustache.

On the school question, he is a hand some looking man

On all other questions of public policy, he has a martial bearing.

On all these questions General Garfield has a distinct and unmistakable record through votes and speeches in congress during the last 17 years Is it not important to know what a man who may be president thinks on these subjects?

SUNDAY SCHOOL CENTENNIAL

Yesterday a statue of Robert Raikes was unvailed on the banks of the Thames One hundred years ago this month he established the first Sunday School in St Catherine street Gloucester This was the humble beginning of one of the greatest departments of Christian work of this century Robert Raikes succeeded his father as proprietor of the Gloucester Journal in 1759 in which he frequently discussed the moral condition of the poor He noticed on Sundays that idleness greatly increased dissipation He rightly thought the reform should begin with the children and in his practical way arranged with four women to teach the children whom he might send them. His efforts seem to have been mostly devoted to imparting knowledge to the children and inculcating habits of cleanliness. He soon created a complete revolution among the poorer classes The children had formerly spent their Sundays in rough sport. They were bare footed and dirty The only requirement made of the children was in the words of Robert Raikes that they should have "clean faces, clean hands and hair combed" They were taught to read and spell first by hired lady teachers. In a private letter he thus spoke of his work "It is now about three years since we began, and I wish you were here to see the effect." "The going among them," he says in the same letter, "doing them little kindnesses, distributing trifling rewards, and ingratiating myself with them, have given me an ascendency greater than I ever could have imagined, for I am told by their mistresses that they are very much afraid of my displeasure.'" In another interesting passage Raikes says. "You will understand that these children are from six years old to fourteen. Boys and girls above this age who have been totally undisciplined are generally too refractory for this government A reformation in society seems to me to be only practicable by establishing notions of duty and practical habits of order and decorum at an early age"

The disappearance of ignorance also marked the disappearance of bare feet and ragged clothes. Other Sunday schools were established rapidly, so that in five years there were 250,000 Sunday school scholars in England alone. This rapid growth was largely the result of Robert Raikes' personal work and his fervid appeals in the Gloucester Journal. Soon he enlisted the active sympathies and aid of women like Hannah More In 1788 the court ladies at Windsor were reported—actively engaged on Sundays in teaching the poor His work made such a wide spread impression that Queen Charlotte sent for him, and expressed her personal interest in his plans, and he retained with pride, a note from her expressing these sentiments

Robert Raikes died in 1811, after giving 31 years of zealous labor in trying to elevate the condition of poor children. He was a genuine philanthropist. The files of his paper show him to have entertained liberal views particularly with respect to amusements It was his effort to make the Sunday schools pleasant, and he had music introduced as a part of the exercises. He is described as "rather tall, somewhat portly, of fair complexion, and most benevolent expression of countenance" He must have been a man of ability as well as of sincere purpose to have so readily engaged the best men and women in England in his work In the literature of that period we find him described in the diary of Miss Burney, and mention is made of him by other prominent writers

His work among the children was rather philanthropic than religious The teaching did not have a religious character until later The Methodists were the first religious body to take up the work Their movement was first characterized by the general use of unpaid teachers and then followed by religious rather than mental training The departure is now so great that in this country the church schools are confined to religious training. This is partly due to the fact that our public schools are so general that there is little need of secular education. This change however has led to what is generally considered the evil of Sunday schools, that [illegible] is shifting the religious training of their children to the Sunday schools. This danger is realized by the best men in all denominations who are trying to correct this dangerous practice It will be generally admitted, notwithstanding the change in the character of the Sunday school training and scholars, that those schools are most useful in the class for which they were originally intended. The Mission schools of to-day are not so far from Robert Raikes idea. The children are ragged and uneducated, morally and mentally Their parents are often physically, morally and mentally depraved These schools clothe and cleanse them, as well as impart knowledge and moral truth. Such work as this must engage the sympathy and support of all who love their race. Through such schools children, who would have grown up depraved and wicked without them, have been made useful and intelligent members of society. It is the glory and honor of having inaugurated such a work that belongs to Robert Raikes, and, from the most secular point of view even, makes him one of the most useful men of the century.

LITERARY NOTES.

Received from Publishers and Clipped from Exchanges.

Lee & Shepard will issue this year the thirteenth volume of the works of Charles Sumner.

D Appleton & Co. will presently have ready the second volume of Heilprin's "Historical Poetry of the Ancient Hebrews"

Porter & Coates will soon publish a new edition of Dickens' "Child's England," beautifully illustrated and printed from large, clear type.

Edward Atkinson's National Domain Chart has reached a third edition. It supplied John Bright with the principal facts used by him in his recent great speech on free trade

Robert Clarke & Co, Cincinnati, Ohio, have in preparation and will shortly publish a prose volume by John James Piatt, entitled "Penciled Fly leaves," consisting of a variety of essays and sketches on attractive subjects.

Mr Livingston Hopkins has produced some of his drollest conceits in the illustrations to "A Comic History of the United States," written by himself and published in a handsomely-printed, neatly bound little book by the American Book Exchange.

Cassell, Petter, Galpin & Co, New York, publish a new edition of Augustus Mongredien's pamphlet on "Free Trade and English Commerce." Its 100 pages are devoted to arguing the benefits of free trade and pointing out the causes of the recent depression in business. Price 25 cents.

The Harpers also publish "The Student's Hume," Professor Brewer's condensation and continuation of Hume's history brought down to the treaty of Berlin, to which an appendix has been added by the American editor. It is an excellent manual of reference, and is fully furnished with notes, marginal references and an index.

Houghton, Mifflin & Co. publish "A Hopeless Case," by Edgar Fawcett. It is a society story and threatens at first to be specifically a "society story," but turns out to be the protest of a poet as well as of an earnest young woman and an unconventional young journalist from Brooklyn against the tyranny of society.

J. B Lippincott & Co have just published the "Agricultural Ants of Texas," by Rev. H C. McCook, of Philadelphia. Mr. McCook is also preparing a book on the ants of the Rocky Mountains. He was engaged a year ago in gathering data for it, and is now in correspondence with assistants in this state.

There is a variety of opinions about the novels of "Ouida," but there is no disagreement on the point that one of her best stories is "Under Two Flags." It enjoys the rare distinction of being a military novel written by a woman, and yet highly praised by military men. A new, paper covered edition of the story has been published by Messrs. J. B. Lippincott & Co.

—The ninth volume of the "Cyclopedia of Biblical, Theological and Ecclesiastical Literature," prepared by the Rev John McClintock, D. D., and James Strong, S. T. D., is announced for early publication by Messrs Harper & Bros. Drs. Comfort, of the Syracuse University, Schaff, of the Union Theological Seminary; Porter, of Yale College, and other eminent scholars, are among the contributors to this volume.

The Harpers have published, in six very handsome volumes, Dr. William Smith's edition of Gibbon, including the autobiography as well as the "Decline and Fall," and containing all the notes of Dean Milman, Guizot and Wenck. It is ninety one years since Gibbon wrote "Upon the whole the History of the Decline and Fall seems to have struck root at home and abroad, and may, perhaps, a hundred years hence still continue to be abused" The prophecy seems modest enough now.

RELIGIOUS NOTES

Bishop Merrill has left for Europe to visit the missions in that country and Asia. He will be absent about six months.

Bishop Stevens, of the Reformed Episcopal Church, reports that that the movement is spreading—among the negroes of South Carolina. There are now 1,200 communicants in seventeen congregations. There are also six missionaries. The Bishop has just ordained three deacons.

"Oh! degenerate church! is there within you no Nehemiah no Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel? Are we given over bound to Tatnai and Aphrasachites?" The object of this and similar advertisements to the Scottish papers is to stir up the Church to a more vigorous resistance of the tide of disestablishment.

Mr D L Moody, the evangelist, when he had closed his labors in St. Louis, made a tour of the southwest into the Indian Territory He had determined to give some attention to the education of Indian girls, and while in the territory secured several pupils whom he is now educating at Northfield, Mass, his summer residence, where he proposes to build a private school for girls to be educated for missionary work and teaching It will accommodate about one hundred pupils He has already secured subscriptions amounting to $50,000 for this enterprise, and will give his time this summer carrying out his plans.

Sixty years ago Moses Howe preached a sermon in Dracut, Mass., the first one in his life, but he was not ordained as a clergyman until 1816. On a recent Sunday afternoon at the Dracut Centre Church, he preached from the same text as on that first occasion, viz: Malachi, ii, 11 Notwithstanding his great age, he preached an hour and a quarter with much freshness and vigor He was born in Haverhill in August, 1789, was settled as pastor in Salem twice, in Portsmouth, N. H, twice, at New Bedford, and then as missionary to the Seamen's Bethel in the latter place Up to the end of 1876 he had preached 8,200 sermons, baptized 725 persons, attended 2,500 funerals and officiated at 1 920 marriages Since 1876, though not settled, he has preached 721 times

VASCO DA GAMA.

Removal of the Remains of the Famous Explorer.

Vasco Da Gama, whose remains have just been removed across the Tagus at Lisbon to the Monastery of Belem, is the greatest and most famous of the Portuguese explorers. He is generally credited with the discovery of the maritime route to India, only second in importance to the discovery of the Western world by Columbus. Dr. Pertz, director of the royal library at Berlin, announced some years ago that certain documents had been brought to light tending to show that the route to the east via the Cape of Good Hope had been known 200 years before Gama's day. The explorer was descended from an ancient family, and supposed to have been tinctured with royal, though illegitimate blood. He early gained the reputation of a dauntless sailor, and after the return of Bartolomeu Diaz (1487) from doubling the Cape, King Joao fixed on him as the man most likely to find a southern passage to India. Joao's purposes were balked by death; but Mancel the Fortunate, his successor, fitted out four vessels with 180 men, and put Gama in command, furnishing him with letters to all the sovereigns, including the mythical Prester John, whom he might have occasion to visit. The little fleet sailed from Lisbon July 8, 1497, but was so beset by storms as not to reach what is now Table Bay until Nov. 16. Three days later, in the teeth of furious gales and mutinous sailors, he rounded the cape, and touched at various places on the hitherto unknown eastern coast of Africa. Having found the people of Melinda far more civilized than he had anticipated, he engaged a very intelligent Indian pilot, a native of Guzerat, and, putting boldly out to sea under his guidance, crossed the Indian Ocean, and arrived at Calicut, Hindustan, May 20, 1498. His reception by the prince of the coast was not cordial. The Arab merchants residing there were jealous of the strangers, thinking that they might interfere with their trade, and incited the Hindus against them. Gama was obliged to fight his way out of the harbor, after which he sailed homeward, reaching Lisbon September, 1499, and was welcomed with every honor. Mancel immediately sent a squadron to India, under Pedro Cabral, to establish Portuguese settlements, in which he was but partially prosperous. At Calicut a number of the adventurers were murdered by the natives, whereupon the king equipped another and larger squadron under the direction of Gama, who arrived safely at the East African coast, founded the colonies of Mozambique and Sofala, and sailed to Travancore. He afterward bombarded Calicut, destroyed the enemy's fleet, and compelled the prince to conclude a treaty of peace, with heavy indemnifications. Before that he had captured a richly laden vessel full of Mohammedans from various parts of Asia on their way to Mecca, and believing them to be African Moors, the traditional foes of his nation, he slew all of them except twenty women and children. Returning to Portugal, Gama was unemployed for twenty years, but he was re-engaged by the new king, and reached as viceroy, the scene of his former triumphs. He redeemed the misfortunes of his predecessors, causing the power of Portugal to be once more respected in India. While in the midst of success, he was overtaken (1525) by death at Cochin. His remains were taken to Lisbon and buried with great pomp, and have never been disturbed until now. Personally, Gama was short and stout, dark-eyed, dark haired, prominent of feature, and florid of complexion. He was intrepid, persevering, fertile in resources, but violent in temper, and capable of cruelty, though he was, on the whole, far juster, more considerate and humane, than most of the navigators and warriors of his time and nation. Disposing of Royal Jewels.

Mr. Turquet has laid the following project before the minister of finance and the budget committee relative to the rich collection of precious stones known under the official title of "Diamants de la Couronne." The under secretary of the fine arts proposes to divide this treasure into three parts. The first part will comprise the historic jewels and stones, and will be placed in the Louvre. The second part will contain stones having a mineralogical value, and will be placed in the museum of the Ecole des Mines. The third part composed of royal and imperial jewelry, and having only a material value, will be put up at auction and sold to the highest bidder, and the proceeds will go to form a state fine art fund. Mr. Turquet has had an inventory made of this princely treasure. One of the most famous of the diamonds is the one called Regent. It weighs 36 carats, is of an extreme whiteness and brilliancy, is square in form, and was estimated at 12,000,000 francs in 1791. Another remarkable object is a round pearl weighing over 27 carats and valued at 0,000 francs; and still another is a necklace of pearls styled Collier de la Reine, composed of 25 pearls and worth 996,700 francs. None of our lady readers would, we are sure, disdain the large, long, clear ruby in this collection, weighing 56 carats and valued at 50,000 francs; nor the amethyst of more than 13 carats, estimated at 00 francs, nor the sapphire of 132 carats, worth 100,000 francs. By selling the jewels of the third class Mr. Turquet expects to realize the sum of 3,000,000 francs, and with it he will purchase works of art and enrich the national museums.

A Pretty German Custom.

A pretty May custom still obtains in the re primitive villages of Suabia, Bavaria, d the Tyrol, distant from the great railway routes, and comparatively untouched the prosaic temper of contemporary rman culture. On the first Sunday of flowery month the unmarried girls of hamlet, armed with leafy boughs, visit procession the young wives who have n wed during the past year, and make mal inquiry, in certain set phrases haled by long custom, with respect to their lth and happiness. Etiquette prebes that each married woman thus disguished should receive her maiden viss at the outer door of her house, before ch they take up their stand in double . After thanking them for their kind uiries, she passes slowly between their ks, receiving from each one in turn a light blow, inflicted with the green branches, as a mark of maidenly disapproval of her faithlessness to their virginal sisterhood. Having endured this gentle discipline she is expected, according to her husband's means, to make a pecuniary offering to the vestal band, and the total amount of this quaint Mayday collection is expended by the village girls in an evening festivity, to which they invite the marriageable bachelors of the village. At this merrymaking all the outlay for musicians and refreshments is defrayed by the youthful hostesses, who, however, reserve to themselves the privilege of "engaging partners." The whole picturesque ceremonial was performed the other day at Tunxdorf, near Papenburg, with strict fidelity to traditions that have been traced back to the middle ages, and probably owe their origin to an even earlier period of German history.

Two Large Southern Planters.

The agricultural operations of Colonel Edward Richardson are on a scale unequaled anywhere in the United States, and probably in the world. Scores of vast cotton plantations, the management of any one of which requires superior skill and experience, scattered through Louisiana and Mississippi, are successfully handled by this able man. His landed possessions rival those of the proudest estates of the English nobility, both in area and value, and many of the German princes have fewer subjects than he has employes on his pay-rolls. The sugar interests furnish an equally conspicuous example of executive ability in agricultural affairs. One man in Louisiana during the period in which ordinary managers were struggling for existence and earning scarcely sufficient to make the improvements upon their places demanded by the new conditions of the sugar trade, went on enlarging his possessions and consolidating an area of sugar lands under one head that must be regarded as entirely phenomenal. John Burnside now owns and operates eight plantations, located in the parishes of Ascension and St. James. On these fine estates over an area in excess of six square miles the sugar cane now waves in the breeze. In their fitting these places represent equally the new and the old methods of manufacture. On four of them the steam train and vacum pan turn out the white and yellow clarified sugars that are equal in quality to the product of the largest refineries, and are so highly prized througout the west and the south for their agreeable flavor and high saccharine strength. Below we present a list of the plantations owned by Mr. Burnside, with the production for the crop year 1879-80, as given in the Price Current's annual report of the sugar and rice crops of Louisiana, recently published:

Name of Plantations.	Acres Cane Ground.	Pounds Sugar. Produced.	Bbls. Molasses.
Ascension	275	400,000	150
Riverton	400	500,000	900
Donaldson	250	450,000	500
Clark	500	1,000,000	1,500
Conway	300	450,000	600
Grange Grove	450	900,000	1,200
St James's Ref	411	801,000	940
Armant	700	[illegible]	1,400
Total	3,287	6,084,000	7,290

At the rates current during the present season, Mr. Burnside must have realized from his crops the enormous sum of $565,000.

Snap Judgment.

Thackeray we think it was who advised people not to depend too much upon the face in judging people. And he tells us how he once followed a man with the ugliest mug he ever saw, and found that he was carrying food to a sick and destitute widow with six children. A great believer in Thackeray having read and pondered over the story, selected a man with a villainous face one day, followed him up an alley to see what widow he was going to relieve, when the villainous man knocked him down and stamped on him. And when he crawled out of the alley some time after, his watch and money were gone. He thinks he will rely on appearances in the future.

The Professional Tramp.

There is a tramp who haunts the east end of Galveston who has got it down fine. He has reduced it to a perfect system. He has his regular customers, so to speak. He knocked at the door of a house. The owner came out. As soon as he saw the tramp he said: "Now, look here; last week I gave you a nickel to stay away for ten days, and here you are back again." The tramp put his hand to his forehead and was lost in thought for several minutes. Then he said, "You are right, colonel. Your regular assessment is not due yet for a week. When I get back to my counting-room, I'll pay off my head bookkeeper and discharge him. He has neglected to give you a proper credit on the ledger." "Well, go on, now." "All right, colonel. This is not a professional call; it is only complimentary. No extra charge." It was a Galveston tramp, too, who grumbled when he was asked to take a dime out of a quarter. He said that the year previous he had been out $50 by losses in making change.

Church Starers.

The following extract from a sermon delivered recently in a Catholic church in New Orleans will apply with equal force to the "grand army of starers" who assemble about some of our churches, much to the disgust of many: "Last Sunday," said the priest, "I was at my window, and looking down the street (it was ten minutes before the end of mass) saw a row of straw hats in front of the church. They were all in single file. And I said to myself, 'Under these hats can there be nothing?' and an echo answered 'Nothing!' Surely, I mused, there must be something under these hats heads, I suppose. Then Æsop's fable of the fox admiring a mask and exclaiming, 'A beautiful head, but there is nothing in it,' was remembered, and I went away. It is wrong for those who call and think themselves gentlemen to stand in front of places of worship for the purpose of staring at the ladies coming out of church. True, the ladies like to be admired, but this ordeal through which they have to pass of being subjected to the glances of a regiment of men in single file is unworthy of country boors staring at strangers who chance to cross their village."

A Piano in Sea Phraseology.

A sea captain who was asked by his wife to look at some pianos while he was in the city with a view of buying her one, wrote home to her: "I saw one that I thought would suit you black walnut hull, strong bulkheads, strengthened fore and aft with iron frame, sealed with white wood and maple. Rigging, steel wire—double on the ratlines and whipped wire on the lower stays, and heavier cordage. Belaying pins of steel and well driven home. Length of taffrail over all, 6 feet, 1 inch; breadth of beam, 38 inches; depth of hold, 14 inches. Hatches can be battened down proof against ten year old boys and commercial drummers, or can be clewed up, on occasion, and sheeted home for a first-class instrumental cyclone."

TOLU ROCK AND RYE
SURE CURE
—FOR—
Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption,
And all Diseases of THROAT and LUNGS.
Put up in Quart Size Bottles for Family Use.
Scientifically prepared of Balsam Tolu, Crystalized Rock Candy, Old Rye and other tonics. The Formula is known to our best physicians; is highly commended by them, and the analysis of our most prominent chemist, Prof. G. A. MARINER, of Chicago, is on the label of every bottle. It is well known to the medical profession that TOLU ROCK and RYE will afford the greatest relief for Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Weak Lungs; also Consumption, in the incipient and advanced stages.
Used as a BEVERAGE and APPETIZER, it makes a delightful tonic for family use. Is pleasant to take; if weak or debilitated, it gives tone, activity and strength to the whole human frame.
CAUTION.—Don't be deceived by unprincipled dealers who try to palm off on you Rock and Rye in place of our TOLU ROCK AND RYE, which is the only medicated article made, the genuine having a GOVERNMENT STAMP on each bottle.

The proprietors of the brewery have determined to put down prices of the above so as to command the trade of El Paso county. The prices now are as low as any beer, and the article is one hundred per cent. better, both as a beverage and health-giving properties. Ale and stout cost more to produce, and always command much higher prices, but as we wish the public to judge for themselves, is the reason for the great reduction. Once used, always used. It is as far above lager beer as the finest imported wines are superior to domestic.

Monday being a legal holiday commemorating of the Declaration of Independence, will be observed in this city. The GAZETTE employes will join in the observance of this day, therefore no paper will appear on next Tuesday morning.

Messrs. E. P. Howbert & Co., have decorated quite extensively in honor of the Fourth.

Mr. H. T. O'Brien, one of our most public spirited merchants, has decorated his store front in a becoming manner out of regard for the glorious Fourth. His sign of the broncho has also been gaily festooned with the national colors.

The contract for the brick work on the Opera House has been let to Mr. John Courter. This is probably the largest contract of brick laying that has ever been undertaken in Colorado Springs. It will require about 750,000 bricks to complete the work.

The special Manitou express, which was to have started from Denver yesterday afternoon, was postponed until next Saturday. A large party of prominent business men of Denver came down on the Leadville express last night, and will remain at Manitou over Sunday. The most of them expect to ascend the Peak.

Mayor Bacon has concluded not to strictly enforce the city ordinance in regard to the firing of crackers and fire works within the city limits. He urgently requests that all persons will use the utmost precaution and not explode crackers in the alleys or any place where there is danger of a fire resulting therefrom.

Ranchmen residing east of the city report that the shower which prevailed here Friday evening was much heavier in the eastern part of the county. Sand Creek which is located only six miles from here contained more water than it has before in two years. The grazing in that vicinity has been materially benefited and the ranchmen are happy over the result.

Mr. J. McPaulin, one of Pinkerton's Chicago detectives, arrived in the city yesterday. He has in his possession the necessary requisition for the transfer of M. Harris, the confidence operator now in jail here, to Illinois. He will not start with the prisoner until the case against him in Justice Bentley's court has been disposed of.

Mr. John Courter extend a very pleasant reception to his many friends at his residence on Corona street last evening. John proved himself one of the most courteous of hosts. Mrs. Courter had bountifully provided for the wants of the inner man, the tables fairly groaning with delicious strawberries and cream, and other refreshments. All present acquiesced in pronouncing the reception a decided success and departed with many good wishes to the host and hostess.

Improving the Reservoir.

We drove over to the reservoir yesterday afternoon and we found Superintendent Fly up to his eyes in Portland cement, but not too full of business to give us a very clear description of the work which was in progress. From what we saw yesterday we are inclined to think that the repairs now being made, or rather the reconstruction of the reservoir, will be a great success.

Superintendent Ely has fifteen men hard at work cementing the reservoir. The work is not yet quite half done but as far as it has progressed it has been successful and the results are exceedingly satisfactory. The cement is mixed with clean sand and gravel and is laid on the stone bottom, which was put in last year, to the depth of not less than two inches. The cement is put on in concentric circles, each circle overlapping the preceding one much as the shingles or slates overlap in forming a roof. After the first course of cement is laid it is kept damp by sprinkling and a second course is laid making a perfect joint free from cracks or irregularities. The whole is then covered with a wash of pure cement, reduced to the consistency of cream, which efficiently closes all the small interstice and makes the coating water tight.

The cementing so far has been most successfully accomplished. The water now in the reservoir presents a most beautifully clear appearance and objects at the bottom are plainly distinguished. The benefits which will result from this improvement are very great, provided no break occurs and the experiment results in a success. The only thing which can defeat the object which is desired, is the giving way of the foundation thus causing a break in the cement casing which is now a most perfect success.

Superintendent Ely is pushing the work to its completion and we believe that he is using every precaution to insure its success. Should it prove the success which we anticipate, it will be an exceedingly great benefit to the city. No water will then needlessly escape except by evaporation for the cement hardens to the consistency of stone and holds its contents as securely as a marble basin.

We hope that the tax payers of this city, and those interested in its government, will pay frequent visits to the reservoir during the progress of the work. Superintendent Ely will feel it as a compliment and besides he desires that his work be closely inspected.

Personal.

Mr. Berks Cornforth and family, of Denver, are registered at the Springs hotel.

Captain Tuttle, of the Denver and Rio Grande, has gone to Denver to spend the fourth.

Mr. W. J. Marshall, advance agent of Sam Gardner's minstrels, spent yesterday in the city.

Messrs. C. R. Husted and J. B. Orman, of the Denver & Rio Grande, are registered at the Springs hotel.

Mr. L. D. Ross, traveling passenger agent of the Keokuk and St. Louis line, is registered at the National.

Senator Harlan is now in Leadville. His family have rooms at the residence of Mrs. Pickett on Cascade Avenue.

Mr. W. L. Hallett, who has been spending the winter in Colorado Springs, left yesterday for his ranch in Wyoming.

Judge C. C. Gillman, Lieutenant George E. Gillman, and Miss Fannie Gillman, of Iowa, have rooms at the Springs hotel.

Mr. N. D. Bragall, one of the most popular mail route agents on the D. and R. G., is spending his vacation in Colorado Springs.

Mr. John Brisben Walker, of the Denver Inter-Ocean, came down from Denver yesterday. He will spend a few days at Manitou with old friends.

Grand Secretary W. E. Pabor will read an original national poem to the Good Templars and their friends at the cold water celebration at Idaho Springs on the 5th of July.

Orange Kennedy and John Simmons, two mute compositors on the Mountaineer, started to Denver yesterday morning on foot. They expect to make the seventy-five miles by noon to-day.

General Danford, who is one of the most genial gentlemen living, was in the city yesterday. He returned to Denver last evening and will go from there to Leadville, where he is having a very successful law practice.

Mr. Thomas B. Jewell, who is well known to the graduates of Oberlin College, who reside in this city, and who is now a prominent attorney in Detroit, Michigan, has been spending the last week in Manitou. We acknowledge a call from him yesterday.

The Rev Mr. Hiscox will preach to-day in the Baptist church. He has made a very pleasant impression during his stay in this city and may become pastor of the Baptist church. He leaves for a visit to the east to-morrow.

Brigadier General Fred Walsenburg, a prominent republican politician from Walsenburg county, and Senior member of the firm of Fred Walsenburg & Levy, of Walsenburg, Walsenburg county, Colorado, has apartments at the Colorado Springs Hotel.

Resources of New Mexico.

Judge L. Bradford Prince writes as follows in the New York Herald of June 28, in regard to the numerous resources of New Mexico: "In yesterday's issue appears an article headed, 'Misery in New Mexico,' which from the fact that it seems to apply to the whole territory remarks that should only refer to a small and remote portion of it, is liable to create an erroneous impression. It is true that the protracted Indian war has caused much suffering and deplorable loss of life, attributable to the inability of our little skeleton of an army, as depleted by congress, to afford sufficient troops for rapid and effective action; but this is all confined to a small section in the southwest, far off from the lines of railroad and the part of the territory to which emmigration is flowing. It is to be remembered that New Mexico embraces 120,000 square miles, or an area about the size of New York and New England combined; and the people of the centre, north and east of the territory, while sympathizing most sincerely with their more unfortunate neighbors, are yet no more affected by destitution at Silver City or Shakspeare than the citizens of New York or Massachusetts were by Governor Garcelon's performances in Maine. So far from New Mexico in general being in a condition of 'misery,' it is enjoying unprecedented prosperity and rejoicing over its rapid progress and improvement. The railroad which first entered the territory but little more than a year ago has been built with surprising rapidity, so that Las Vegas, Santa Fe and Albuquerque, with all the intermediate towns, are now within about four days' travel from New York. With it has come a great influx of population, and everywhere building is being rapidly carried on to endeavor to meet the necessities of the new comers. While yet but little known at the east it can safely be said that the resources of New Mexico and the inducements presented by climate and character of population are far greater than those of any other territory, and that when its advantages are known the tide of emigration will flow to it more largely than to any other section. Its mineral resources are practically boundless. Gold, silver and copper are from the extreme north in Colfax and Taos to the boundaries of Mexico and Arizona. The old mines which produced almost fabulously of silver in the early Spanish days, and which were closed in 1680 by the Indian war, are just being re opened by American enterprise. Professor Silliman, in his recent report, says that the newly discovered gold placers on the Upper Rio Grande are second only in importance to the virgin fields of gold discovered in California and Australia more than a quarter of a century ago, while Western Colfax and Mora contain undeveloped riches sufficient for generations. No one who has examined the subject can doubt that New Mexico contains more silver than Colorado or Nevada, and more gold than now exists in California, and that its future, if based on its mineral resources alone, would be a most brilliant one."

Honoring Independence Day.

The only public demonstration in honor of the Fourth will be that given by the fire department of this city. The programme arranged for to-morrow is as follows: In the morning at nine o'clock there will be a parade of the fire department, headed by the Occidental band, in which all the companies will participate. The races, which have heretofore been announced in the columns of the GAZETTE, will take place at one o'clock in the afternoon. The first race will be a plug race of 800 feet for a purse of $60. $40 of which will be given to the first and $20 to the second. There will also be a straight away race of 800 feet, for which a suitable prize will be given. As we have but one Hook and Ladder Company, it has been arranged for them to run against time. The conditions are such that the company must run 1,000 feet in one minute or better. Providing they make it within the specified time, they will receive a purse of $50; should they fail, a purse of $25 will be given for making the attempt. Considerable interest has been manifested upon the part of the fire companies in the races and an interesting contest is promised. The companies have been in practice for some time past and have made some admirable records. Tejon street in front of the post office has been selected as the starting point. In the evening there will be a complimentary banquet at Kenney's restaurant extended by the citizens of Colorado Springs to the Fire Department and the Occidental Band.

Minstrels To-morrow Night.

Gardner's Minstrels will appear in Court House Hall to morrow evening. The Denver News speaks as follows concerning this troupe:

"Sam Gardner's minstrels drew another fine audience to the opera house last night to witness their excellent performance. The concert portion of the entertainment is exceedingly good, and the humerous sketches and specialties which follow are no less worthy of praise. Keating and Flynn, in what is termed break-neck high kicking song and dance business are very amusing and excel the highest of other high kickers. The whole of the programme is amusing and above the average of the usual minstrel entertainment. Sam Dearin, well-known in this city, and a performer unrivalled in some of his specialties, has joined the troupe here and will travel with them in the future.

The stranger leaped into the middle of the street, and with a pale face turned around to see what was the matter.

"Is there any danger of the building falling?" asked the stranger.

"Not that I know of," replied the fuss maker; "but in these days of startling adventures and miraculous escapes, you can't almost always tell what will happen." [Pueblo Cheiftan.
